DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1-25 and 37-38, drawn to compositions of microgel containing polymers.

Group II, claim(s) 26-28 and 39, drawn to use of microgel containing polymers as a processing aid for thermoplastics.

Group III, claim(s) 29 and 33-36, drawn to a process for the preparation of microgel containing polymers.

Group IV, claim(s) 30, drawn to a composition of microgel and polymer.

Group V, claim(s) 31, drawn to use of compositions of microgel and polymer in moulded bodies.

Group VI, claim(s) 32, drawn to a process for production of moulded bodies or coatings.

The inventions listed as Groups I-VI do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: Groups I-VI share the same technical feature, which is a composition comprising a crosslinkable organic medium and at least one microgel that has not been crosslinked by means of high-energy radiation. U.S. Patent No. 6,399,706 to Obrecht et al. teaches a composition comprising at least one crosslinkable organic medium hydroxyethyl methacrylate (HEMA) with a microgel not crosslinked by means of high-energy radiation (Example 2, col. 8). HEMA has a viscosity of 3.181 mPas at 45°C (see Table 4 of Chen et al. J. Chem. Eng. Data 2005, 50, page 1992 as supporting evidence). The viscosity of HEMA is presumably under 30,000 mPas at 120°C, as liquids tend to become less viscous at elevated temperatures. Thus, the special technical feature of Groups I-VI fail to define a contribution over Obrecht et al. The special technical feature common to all groups is known in the art, and Groups I-VI exhibit a lack of unity.

The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims.

Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and the product claims are subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be considered for rejoinder. All claims directed to a nonelected process invention must require all the limitations of an allowable product claim for that process invention to be rejoined.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103 and 112. Until all claims to the elected product are found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained. Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowable product claim will not be rejoined. See MPEP § 821.04(b). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution to require the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder. Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP § 804.01.
